Police Catch Robber Of Reiss Plane Engine

William Thomson Admits Theft;
Being Brought Back to Lake Placid

What Lake Placid Police Chief Lawrence MacDonald described as "routine police work" led to the arrest yesterday at Windsor Locks, Conn., of a man who has confessed to theft of the engine and other parts of the Julian Reiss plane which crashed ten miles south of Lake Placid in a snowstorm last October 31.

The Placid police and the New York State Troopers cooperated in an exchange of information developed concerning a strange plane seen flying over the scene of the crash.

Sgt. P. J. Harris and Corp. W. P. Miller of the Ray Brook substation went to Springfield, Mass., yesterday to return William Thomson, 38, of Longmeadow, Mass., to Lake Placid. Thomson, a pilot and airport mechanic, is said to have admitted the theft of $7000-worth of engine and instrument equipment from the crashed plane.

Julian Reiss this morning speculated that Thomson must have had some help in removing the 450 pound engine, "without leaving a track through the woods". Thomson is being arraigned today in Springfield on a fugitive charge. He will be asked to waive extradition. If he does not, District Attorney Daniel Manning will have to file a plea with the Governor of Massachusetts. However, it is expected Thomson will agree to the extradition and he will then be brought before Justice of the Peace Harland Branch of the Town of St. Armand.

Sgt. Harris reported from Springfield that the missing airplane has been recovered. The motor alone is valued at $5,100. Sgt. Harris credited the Lake Placid police and others with providing information leading to the arrest.

Thomson first appeared over the scene of the crash on November 4, four days after Mr. Reiss and his daughter, Patricia, had a miraculous escape when the small plane was carried into the woods by the weight of ice on the wings and with its radio signaling equipment out of order.

Sgt. Harris said Thomson first removed and carried away the instrument parts. He left the engine in the woods, after removing it from the plane, and then returned for it later by automobile. The theft of the engine and other parts of the plane was discovered by Lt. Peter Reiss, son of Mr. and Mrs. Julian Reiss.

Designed Great Courses:

Golfer Seymour Dunn Dies in Placid at 76

Seymour Dunn, one of the greats of the golfing world, died yesterday at 12:30 p.m. in Lake Placid after long being ill with diabetes. He was 76 years of age.

Mr. Dunn had designed many top-flight golf courses in the Adirondacks and elsewhere. He had instructed and built courses for King Leopold of Belgium, King Victor Emmanuel of Italy and Baron Rothschild of France. He had been golf pro at the Lake Placid Club from 1908-29 and in the latter year established the largest golf school of all time, in Madison Square Garden, a school which lasted through four depression years. Later he managed the Dunn Golf School in Rockefeller Center.

Among the courses designed by Mr. Dunn were Saranac Inn, Fawn Club, Schrono Lake, the original nine of the Craig Wood, the Lake Placid Club, AuSable Club, Ticonderoga and Paul Smiths. Others of his courses were at Sunnyside, New Jersey, and Laurel, Mississippi.

While with the Lake Placid Club he built what is considered to be one of America's earliest golf factories, an outside clubmaker's shop with assembly-line techniques.

Mr. Dunn instructed many men who became champions (and frequently beat them), men such as Jim Barnes, Walter Hagen, Gene Sarazen and Joe Kirkwood.

Seymour Dunn was a direct descendant of two of the oldest families in Scottish golf history, the Durns and the Gourlays. One of his ancestors, Douglas Gourlay, gave command performance lessons to James VI of Scotland. The Durns and Gourlays were the first manufacturers of golf clubs and the early feather-stuffed leather balls.

Mr. Dunn was born March 11, 1882 at North Berwick, Scotland where his father was a pro. His mother, Isabella Gourley Dunn, for 27 years was the world's best woman golfer.

In 1894, at the age of 12, Seymour came to America as a teaching assistant to his brother, John, at Ardley-on-Hudson. That same year his uncle, William Dunn, captured the first American Open Championship. Later Mr. Dunn taught at Lawrenceville School and Wyckoff Country Club before coming to Lake Placid in 1900 as the pro at the Stevens House Hotel, staying there until 1907 when he went to the Lake Placid Club.

His wife, the former Elizabeth Maxwell, whom he married in 1908 survives and also eight children, all of whom have been golf pros, and two of whom, Bob and Cameron, still are. Also Mrs. Veronica Burham of Venice, Calif.; Robert of Harrisburg; Donald of North Bergen, N.J.; Cameron of Carlisle, Pa.; Gordon of Lake Placid; Mrs. Helen Dunbar of Red Oak, Iowa; Mrs. Evelyn Conrad of Morrisstown; and sixteen grandchildren.

Services will be from Clark's funeral home in Lake Placid tomorrow at 2 p.m. Visiting hours this evening are from 7 to 9. Mr. Dunn was an Episcopalian.

Tumultuous Welcome Greets Fidel Castro

Leader Charges Arms Being Hidden

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro charges that certain revolutionary elements are hiding arms for use against his leadership. He announced weapons and ammunition were seized from Havana's San Antonio barracks by dissident elements Wednesday.

This somber note emerged in the Cuban capital's joyous reception of the bearded civil war hero. He warned his cheering supporters Thursday night they must guard their victory against oath-diehard backers of deposed dictator Fulgencio Batista and certain revolutionaries.

Addressing a crowd of 30,000 at Camp Columbia, the army headquarters just outside Havana, Castro appealed to public opinion to halt contraband traffic in arms and leave "the little leaders" without troops.

He said some dissident elements — which he did not identify — had raided the barracks and seized a number of machine guns and rifles and 80,000 cartridges. The exact number of weapons was undetermined.

Castro said this was an affront to both himself as commander in chief and to his Havana area commander, Maj. Camilo Cienfuegos. There are many varying elements within the revolution who may find themselves at cross purposes as events unfold, despite the look of solid unity at this moment.

Castro told the Camp Columbia rally that the next 5 to 15 years will tell whether the Cubans will profit from the victory over dictatorship and oppression.

With an Escort of Tanks, autos and other vehicles, Castro proceeded at snail's pace through the surging crowds to the presidential palace.

There he was met by provisional president Manuel Urrutia, who called him "The Great Son of the Cuban People." Urrutia described Castro as the most self-sacrificing fighter in Cuban history and a man who has not taken power himself but who has been content to place it in the hands of civilians.

WEATHER
Continued cold and rather windy through Saturday. Occasional snow flurries generally and a few heavier squalls possible over the western slopes of the Adirondacks with some blowing and drifting snow likely. High this afternoon and Saturday 15-20. Low tonight: zero to 10 above. Westerly winds 15-25 mph at the time, but occasionally stronger in gusts during the day and somewhat stronger at night.

Uncle Sam to Borrow 3 1/2 Million Dollars
WASHINGTON (AP) — Uncle Sam plans to borrow 3 1/2 billion dollars next week.

The Treasury, in announcing its first offering of long-term bonds in seven months, said it will try to make 250 million dollars of 4 per cent. Treasury bonds priced at 99 per cent. of face value. The bonds at this price will yield about 4 1/2 per cent. In addition, 2 1/2 billion dollars of notes will be offered with an interest rate of 3 1/2 per cent.

Senate Rejects Move To Adopt New Rules

Johnson Wins Major Battle But Anti-Filibuster Forces Fight On

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate today turned down a key proposal designed by civil rights advocates to clear the way for a tight new curb on filibusters.

The roll call vote was the first test of strength in the swirling battle over rules touched off with the start of the new Senate session two days ago.

It marked a striking victory for Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) and other Democratic and Republican Senate leaders backing a compromise offered by Johnson.

Conversely, it was a major setback for Vice President Richard M. Nixon and a bipartisan anti-filibuster bloc of northern and western senators.

The vote came on a motion by Johnson to table and thus kill a resolution by Sen. Clinton P. Anderson (D-Mt.) Anderson's aim was to establish that each new Senate has the right to adopt its own rules by majority vote at the start of a session.

The anti-filibuster forces were still far from giving up. They said, 5th grad 106, talk. They said, 5th grad 106, talk. They said, 5th grad 106, talk.

NAME OFFICERS AT NORTH POLE

Fred Fortune Elected President

Frederick R. Fortune of Lake Placid has been named president of Santa's Workshop and vice-president of North Pole Toys in a reorganization of these enterprises. Thomas Reiss, son of the founder, Julian Reiss, has been elected executive vice president of Santa's Workshop and president of North Pole Toys, both of which enterprises are located in the township of Wilmington.

Julian Reiss and Harold Fortune, who has been in charge of operations, will continue on the executive committee of the board of directors. James Madden has been elected second vice president and will work closely with Fred Fortune and Tom Reiss in the management operations.

Peter Reiss, another son of Mr. and Mrs. Julian Reiss, will be working at the North Pole in various departments. He recently left the Air Force in which he served for three years as an officer.

Mr. Julian Reiss, in giving The Enterprise the news, stressed that his son, Tom, will continue in charge of Tupper Lake Northland Motors carrying this work on together with his new duties.

With a considerable discussion on the situation at their meeting and several men said they felt that discontinuance of passenger service would work a real hardship on the area and particularly on Summit Veterans Hospital at Tupper Lake, a hospital in which Legionnaires naturally have a special interest.

Insists U.S. Economy Must Be Safeguarded

Asks Laws for Civil Rights, Against Labor Rackets and Inflation

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today challenged the heavily Democratic new Congress to meet the Communist threat by living within his 77-billion-dollar budget and working toward tax relief "in the foreseeable future."

In a State of the Union message outlining administration plans for building a better and stronger America in this age of catastrophic war possibilities, the President said his formula is designed to preserve this nation's way of life.

Useless expenditures, he said, "might tend to undermine the economy and therefore the nation's safety."

His 5,000-word address, prepared for personal delivery at a joint session of the Senate and House, also set forth these other highlight proposals calling for:

1. Enactment of new civil rights legislation to be submitted to Congress soon. Without being specific about the legislation, the President deplored closing of some public schools in the integration controversy, and pledged anew he will take every action necessary to enforce the law as interpreted by the courts.

2. New laws aimed at wiping out "corruption, racketeering, and abuse of power and trust in labor-management affairs." Eisenhower expressed disappointment the last Congress, also Democratic-controlled, did not act in this field despite disclosures by the investigating committee headed by Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.).

3. Amendment of the 1946 full employment law "to make it clear that the government intends to use all appropriate means to protect the buying power of the dollar." The President did not specify just what he has in mind, but he again called on labor and business leaders to exercise statesmanship to curb the wage-price spiral. And he announced he will set up a Cabinet committee on price stability for economic growth.

4. Passage of new farm legislation designed to reduce heavy federal outlays in that field eventually, and to assure "greater freedom for markets to reflect the wishes of producers and consumers."

As in the case of the others, Eisenhower went into no detail on the farm program. The specific provisions of all the programs will be set forth in a series of special messages to Congress in the next several weeks.

Eisenhower told Congress the nation's economy is strong and healthy, and that the 1958 business recession is fading into history. "Personal income," he said, "is at an all-time high."

Eisenhower said his military budget will advance "a sensible posture of defense," along with increased efficiency and avoidance of waste.

But, he added at another point, "The basic question facing us today is more than mere survival—the military defense of national life and territory. It is the preservation of a way of life."

"We must meet the world challenge and at the same time permit no stagnation in America," he said. "Unless we progress, we regress."

He said spending will increase for health programs, federal aid for science and education, city redevelopment, and federal aid for highways.

He called also for continuation of the foreign aid program, but did not estimate its cost. The request is expected to go higher than the $3,700,000,000 tagged for spending this year.

Eisenhower did not list the domestic programs to be curtailed or dropped in his campaign to achieve a balanced 77-billion-dollar budget. His budget message will go to Congress Jan. 19.

WITH TODAY'S ENTERPRISE
SCHUSSBOOMER
The following letter from Mrs. Nowalski of the New York State Department of Commerce to Marge Wilson, editor of the Schussboomer, was welcome to the enterprise office and will be of interest to our readers:
"We were very interested to receive the first two copies of the SCHUSSBOOMER. We're reading some of the copies around to various members of the staff. I am also taking two of them with me to New York today to show to the New York Ski Club. This is an excellent bit of publicity for the area on the part of the Adirondack Daily Enterprise. The magazine especially interested me!
Hope you will keep us on your list to receive future editions as they come off the press. Will use some of the material in my book we are preparing for WNY and will also credit to the SCHUSSBOOMER.
